My personal skills and qualities:

One of my key skills is my ability to build strong relationships with both my peers and the students I teach; I feel this is vital to be an outstanding teacher. My background of coaching and teaching and personal experiences in the sporting world allows me to do this successfully and this ensures that I can maximise students' abilities and support schools in a wider capacity; be it with extra-curricular or departmental logistics. Being organised and adaptable are two skills that I feel are vital and are especially important in PE, as situations and environments are constantly changing and being able to continually produce high quality lessons is imperative.

My other interests and hobbies:

Throughout my life I have been passionate about taking part in and being involved in sport and physical activity. From the age of ten until the present day I have competed in sport most weekends and this competitive side to me helps to spurn me on to meet challenges that I am faced with in life. Having an identical twin also helped my competitive side as being the oldest (albeit by only thirty minutes) ensured that I was never allowed to take a backwards step as he would be flying past me! Travelling is also a big interest of mine and after visiting some amazing places in Europe such as Iceland and Florence I want to keep broadening my horizons and seeing other parts of the world alongside a return trip back to Australia.
