My personal skills and qualities:

I am a reflective practitioner and constantly reflect on my practice to bring about improvement and am keen to access CPD to develop my subject knowledge and teaching. I always listen to and take on board feedback. I work well with others and enjoy working as part of a team. I am able to build positive relationships with both peers and students based on mutual respect and believe that you can learn from everyone, including students. My experience of working with children from different backgrounds, countries and lifestyles has made me realise that all children are different and that I need to adapt my teaching accordingly. I consider myself to be resilient and am keen to develop resilience in the students that I teach.

My other interests and hobbies:

I love playing sport, especially basketball, where I play for a local league team. Last summer, I took up running, along with my mother, and we completed our first 10k run, which was a big achievement for us. Going to the gym is a regular aspect of my weekly routine and I enjoy keeping fit. I also love to travel and explore new places; I have volunteered in South Africa, worked in America and explored parts of Italy. Australia, Bali and parts of Asia are all on my bucket list. I also love FOOD! Both of my parents are Chefs and I regularly get to try new food and cuisines, whilst practicing my own cooking skills and baking sweet treats, to satisfy my sweet tooth.
