It is easy to identify when a lesson is getting the response you wanted from the students, but it is difficult to be able to rectify this on the spot and I believe this is something I excel at.My creativity and my ability to see beyond the obvious leads me to plan exciting and challenging lessons where the students are given an environment in which they can thrive.I develop strong working relationships with the children I have coached/taught and I believe having these positive relationships enhances the learning environment for the students.My academic qualifications provide me with excellent subject knowledge in examination PE that has been demonstrated in my teaching of GCSE and BTEC as well as teaching in Key Stage 5.

My personal skills and qualities:

Prior to teacher training, I worked in a professional football club for over 4 years which helped shape my personal beliefs and values and contributed to me being the teacher I am today. The professional football environment is much like the school environment in that the demands are high, and the workload is extensive, so I believe my experience has helped me deal with these demands whilst also vastly improving my communication skills with both staff and students. I am driven to ensure that all pupils in my lessons make progress and I adapt my teaching to meet a range of learners' needs, being able to swiftly identify where pupils need support or challenge. I am extremely hard working and set high standards for myself in everything that I do.

My other interests and hobbies:

I coach an U7s boys football team and am also a huge motorsport fan. I enjoy going to watch motor racing and also take part in go-karting locally. My biggest passion is watching Newcastle United and I am a season ticket holder. I regularly go to the cinema; I also try and get out fishing whenever I can, having recently been introduced to sea fishing.

Preferred location:

Northeast (However, I am open to relocating, including abroad)
